Four-Inch Snow Cause Of Dozen Auto Accidents

County Road Maintenance Crews Slated For 24-Hour Schedule If Forecast Of Greater Fall Materializes.

The heaviest snowfall of the year rolled out the white carpet for the official appearance of Old Man Winter tomorrow, but kept city and county road maintenance crews busy most of Saturday pulling skidded cars out of ditches and clearing highways and streets for motorists.

Additional snow, or rain, ending by early tonight, was forecast by the weather bureau. Little change in temperature was expected.

No injuries were reported as the result of the more than a dozen "fender bending" mishaps, most of which occurred in the city last night and early today. State patrolmen reported three minor incidents on U. S. Routes 42 and 30, and termed roads "hazardous."

Warnings to "drive carefully" were sent out by highway patrolmen and county officials as accidents mounted throughout the state.

Snow, sleet, rain and fog delayed holiday travelers throughout the eastern states where the snowfall reached 10 inches in some areas. Trains were reported running late and airmail was shifted to rail. Local snowfall averaged four inches.

It's a Gay Holiday In Scio, Ohio

SCIO—(AP)—This village of 1,400 was a "boom town" today as 827 Scio-Ohio pottery employes pondered how to spend—or save—$705,686 in Christmas bonus checks from their boss, L. P. Reese, a relief recipient 14 years ago.

The Scio bank was ready for a rush of business, and Cashier William Hughes observed happily: "This will play the dickens with the notes at our bank."

The money was handed out at a pre-holiday surprise party last night.

Interviews with many who received the maximum bonus of $3,500 indicated much of the money would be used to pay debts, increase savings and buy bonds.

Rags to Riches Tale.

The 53-year-old Reese, penniless in 1932 when he began building an abandoned pottery into a $3,000,000 plant, explained his gifts thus:

"I've got all the money I need, and my ambition is to keep my employes the highest paid pottery workers in the world."

Along with the bonus, he announced a 20-cent-an-hour increase in wages, with a $1 hourly minimum for unskilled workers.

To 88 men and women who had been with his pottery for at least 10 of its 14-year existence, Reese gave bonuses of $3,500. The average bonus was $852.50, and the smallest, $10 for new employes.

Workers Dazed.

Most of the 10-year employes glanced at the checks and were dazed. Some walked away with rubbery legs, but recovered and ran back to thank Reese and shake his hand.

Reese had another surprise for his community—a new home for the American Legion, which had been raising funds for that purpose.

NORMA MAKES A CLEAN SWEEP—Pretty, six-year-old Norma Eggerton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Eggerton, 376 Newman street, industriously cleans off the snow-laden steps of her neighbor's house at 398 Newman street this morning. Norma often visits her neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Butler, and so, with Santa Claus soon to visit here, she diligently swept the steps and sidewalk.—(News-Journal staff photo by George Petrovic)

Hundreds Die As Sea Floods Coastal Area

Fragmentary Reports of Devastation Reveal Widespread Destruction to Towns, Cities of Nippon.

TOKYO—(AP)—A violent earthquake—possibly the world's heaviest—and the severe tidal wave it erupted off Wakayama peninsula today wreaked death and destruction over 15,000 square miles of southern Japan.

U. S. Army and Japanese sources released these fragmentary reports:

500 Japanese dead.
612 Japanese injured.
42 Japanese and British occupation soldier missing.
4,500 homes destroyed.
9,044 homes heavily damaged.
14,000 dwellings flooded.
500 fishing vessels destroyed.

Kushimoto, a fishing town of 10,000 on the southern tip of Wakayama peninsula—at the southeastern tip of Honshu—was reported washed away by seven-foot waves.

Fire destroyed one third of Shingu, on the east coast of Honshu, and U. S. Army fliers said flames still were visible there this afternoon.

The temblor was recorded at 4:20 a. m. (2:20 p. m. Friday, EST). Slight tremors followed about every half hour.

Damage extended from the northern coast of Kyushu through Shikoku and north to Shizuoka prefecture on Honshu. Kyodo said the havoc wrought extended 340 miles at its longest and 60 miles wide.

Osaka Damaged.

Osaka, Japan's second largest city, reported 14 killed, heavy property damage and water three feet deep in some sections.

The famous cities of Kyoto and Nara, both former Japanese capitals near Osaka appeared to have escaped any but minor damage. Both escaped bomb damage during the war.

The U. S. military government said Osaka had five days' food rations for 50,00 people. Large quantities of imported grain recently were released to Japanese at Kobe. Authorities said they considered the food situation good at both places.

However, U. S. military officials said it may be necessary to supply stricken areas in the Wakayama peninsula by boat because of communications disruptions.

RIFT FLARES IN GOP FOLD

Rep. Jenkins Attacks Dewey for Giving Halleck House Leadership Endorsement.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The first serious rift in the Republican ranks since the party won the congressional elections broke into the open today with a demand that presidential candidates keep hands off the house leadership contests.

Rep. Thomas Jenkins of Ohio objected in a formal statement to "attempts by outsiders to dominate the American congress."

He leveled his remarks primarily at Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's endorsement of Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana for the house floor leadership. But he said they apply as well to "any presidential aspirants—Senator Taft or Senator Bricker, too, although I don't think they'd try it."

Jenkins is one of three announced candidates for the leadership position to be vacated by Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts when he becomes speaker of the house on January 15.

The others are Halleck and Rep. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, neither of whom was in Washington when Jenkins let loose his blast at the New York governor last night.

A fourth representative, Clarence J. Brown, has announced his availability for the leadership but has not formally declared his candidacy.

While capitol observers long had seen the leadership struggle as a jockeying for position for the GOP presidential nomination, Jenkins was the first member of his party to label it openly as such.

Except for including Taft and Bricker in his grouping of "presidential aspirants," he made no reference in his statement to Capitol Hill talk that Brown has the backing of the Ohio senators.

Jenkins reiterated his intention to remain in the race until it is settled by the Republican caucus on January 2.

Dewey's espousal of Halleck's candidacy, Jenkins declared, was an expression of the governor's desire to "let the country know that Hallack was 'his' man."

"He must believe it will help him into the presidency," he said. "Does it mean that Dewey will have a voice and hand in directing the actions of congress? It means nothing else" In Albany a Dewey aide commented: "Freedom of speech is still permitted—fortunately."

NO BIRTHDAY PARTY?

LONDON—(AP)—This is Prime Minister Joseph Stalin's 67th birthday but up to mid-morning Moscow radio broadcasts heard in London had made no mention of the fact.

I PLAYED AT Friendly House

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of personal sketches of well-known Mansfield residents who used Friendly House facilities in their youth.)

Clifford C. Knarr, city councilman representing Third ward, says:

"I was in contact with Friendly House when I was a youngster and even in later years when my brother, Stewart W. Knarr, was a director there. He is now director of the Valentine Boys' club in Chicago. I know from personal observations and experiences that the Friendly House cause is one of the most worthy in the city.

"It is my thought that there are few athletically-inclined men in Mansfield who didn't make use of Friendly House facilities in some form when they were boys. The basketball court was what I used mostly when I was a kid in grade school and even later when I played basketball with City Industrial league teams."

WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO MISHAP

NEW LONDON — One New London area resident was killed and two others were seriously injured in a three-car accident on an icy highway one mile east of Oberlin last night.

Mrs. Ida Lucal, 55, of Collins, died at Allen Memorial hospital in Oberlin three hours after the car which her son, Conrad Lucal, of New London, was driving, skidded on U. S. Route 20 and was in a head-on collision with a truck at 6 p. m.

Her husband, Leon Lucal, suffered a fractured pelvis and other injuries, and a granddaughter, Sharon Lucal, 11, received internal injuries in the accident. Both were in serious condition today in Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucal, their son and daughter-in-law and their two grandchildren were returning to New London after a shopping trip to Elyria when the tragedy occurred.

Witnesses said the car skidded into the path of a truck driven by Frank Shapiro, of Cleveland. A third car, driven by William McGuire, of Schenectady, N. Y., crashed into the rear of Lucal's vehicle, but McGuire was not injured. All three vehicles were damaged.

Uninjured were Mr. and Mrs Conrad Lucal and their young son.

JOHN GETS HIS REST BUT WITH POLICE HELP

Police had to call out an interpreter so that aged John Falato, of Paterson, N. J., could rest.

John climbed down from a Chicago-bound bus at Mansfield yesterday, determined to rest up before going on. But it wasn't easy.

You see, John speaks no English. Only Italian. A note in his pocket listed his destination. But attempts by bus depot employes to learn why he de-barked at Mansfield proved fruitless.

Police finally came to the rescue. A Mansfield street department employe, Joe Letizia, was called. Joe speaks Italian. John's weary eyes brightened.

It was simple, after that. All John wanted was rest. So yesterday John "rested"—in a hardback, courtroom chair. In the silence of the empty chambers he dozed.

Today, in his weather-beaten hat and overcoat, and clutching his leatherette satchel and a cane, John was again on his way.

F. H. CAMPAIGN TOPS $10,000

End of the first week in the public campaign for $60,000 with which to aid in financing a new $235,000 Friendly House building ended today with $10,025 in the collection coffers.

Paul W. Endriss, campaign chairman, said all of the $10,025 collected to date is in the form of unsolicited gifts Reports from industrial, business, professional and public employes divisions of the campaign have still not been made, he said.

Yesterday's gifts amounted to $1,825.

The drive, which still has approximately two and one-half weeks to go before the Jan. 15 deadline, is part of "Operation Tomorrow," a long-range social and youth improvement program to provide better facilities for the Friendly House, YMCA, YWCA, Girl Scouts and the Salvation Army.

ELLIOTT COMING HOME

MOSCOW—(AP)—Elliott Roosevelt said today that he and his wife probably will leave Moscow tomorrow, if the weather permits, with the intention of spending Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Hyde Park.

SCHOOL STRIKE CHARTER FAILS

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(UNS)—The four-week-old strike of 1,165 St. Paul public school teachers continued today after the teachers rejected a charter commission proposal to end the strike while the commission considered a new wage scale.

The commission told the teachers' joint council representatives that it would process a city charter amendment to provide three million dollars more for schools if they returned to their jobs.

In rejecting the offer, the teachers' council declared last night:

"A number of members of the charter commission openly indicated their intention of working for defeat of this amendment at the polls.

"Only through a reasonable guarantee that the program for better schools will not be sabotaged will the strike action be suspended. Only with the accomplishment of the program will the suspension be made permanent."

Under the commission proposal, a new teacher salary scale would be established with a $2,400 yearly minimum and an eventual $4,200 maximum for teachers with a bachelor of arts degree.

EDWIN BAXTER DIES AT AGE 88

Pioneer Industrialist Passes In General Hospital After Long Illness.

Edwin D. Baxter, 88, one of Mansfield's pioneer industrialists, died in General hospital early today.

Although he had been in failing health for several years, Mr. Baxter had been confined to the hospital only for the past six weeks.

He was born in Stark county near Hanover, Feb. 2, 1858, the son of Thomas and Isabella Baxter. Later the family moved to Salem, where Mr. Baxter went into the stove manufacturing business with his father and eight brothers. In 1886, the Baxters moved the business to Mansfield and founded the Baxter Stove company here.

EDWIN D. BAXTER

Mr. Baxter continued his affiliations with that company until 1917, when it was sold to other interests.

Civic Worker.

Mr. Baxter was always greatly interested in community and church activities. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church and a teacher in its Sunday school for 25 years.

He was a member of the board of trustees and one of the founders of the Mansfield Community Fund, a member of the General hospital board and actively interested in its work for many years. One of the founders of the Mansfield YMCA, he served at various times as its president and vice president and also held the chairmanship of the foreign work committee.

Mr. Baxter was also a member of the board of directors of the Mechanics Building and Loan company and the Richland Trust company.

Founded Senior Golfers.

He was a member of the Westbrook Country club and through his golf interests there, became one of the founders of the Ohio Senior Golf association, holding tion. Just this past September he was retired as an honorary president of the association.

Mr. Baxter leaves one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Lare; one granddaughter, Margaret Louise Reynolds, and a brother, Berry A., of Altadena, Calif. His wife, the former Mary Simpson, daughter of the late John Simpson, former superintendent of Mansfield schools, died in September, 1930.

Services will be held at the home, 177 West Second street, Monday at 2 p. m. with Rev. David N. Roller officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home until Monday morning.

Great Arm of Water Swings Six Times

TOKYO—(AP)—U. S. military reports tonight said all American army personnel in Japan's quake and tidal wave ravaged area were safe.

Only one casualty—a missing soldier—was reported from the British occupation sector, although it is near the center of the area. British headquarters at Kure was damaged.

Chaplain Pays Joan's Lawyers

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Charles Chaplin's long and unsuccessful legal fight to escape being labeled the father of Joan Barry's three-year-old daughter today cost the comedian an additional $39,706.

Superior Judge Clarence L. Kincaid yesterday ordered Chaplin to pay that sum in attorneys' fees to Joseph Scott and Associates. Kincaid set the award at $42,706 but allowed Chaplin to deduct $3,000 he paid previously.

Georgia's Talmadge Dies Before Inauguration

ELLIS ARNALL

ATLANTA—(AP)—Eugene Talmadge, who four times was elected governor of Georgia, died today less than a month before his scheduled fourth inauguration.

The 62-year-old champion of white supremacy succumbed quietly at Piedmont hospital where he had lain in a coma since last night.

His death left in doubt the successor to the governorship from which youthful Ellis Arnall ousted him four years ago. Unofficial legal sources said however that Arnall might remain in office at least until the next general election two years hence.

There is no precedent in the state, but the constitution provides the governor shall remain in office until his successor is qualified and elected. The legislature which meets in January formally elects the governor.

ARNALL WAS PREVENTED from seeking a second term under a new constitution.

Talmadge's death was announced simply by a physician who stepped from the governor elect's room and announced:

"He died at seven o'clock."

Talmadge first was striken with a stomach hemorrhage in Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 4, and twice he was pronounced better and dismissed from the hospital. He entered the hospital for the last time Nov. 29, and had been improving until last Sunday when he suffered a relapse.

Two days ago his physicians said he was suffering with an acute inflamation of the liver cells possibly caused by the administration of plasma and pronounced his condition critical. He had received much blood by transfusion since the first hemorrhages.

Members of the Talmadge family, including his wife, son and campaign manager, Herman, and two daughters, Mrs. Bill Kimbrough and Mrs. Charles Smyly, were near his bedside when the governor-elect died.

Talmadge's death ended an up and down political career in Georgia. His first success was in 1927 when he was named state commissioner of agriculture. In 1933, he was elected governor, serving two two-year terms until 1937. He lost a bitter battle for the U. S. senate to Richard B. Russell in 1936, and again in 1938, he was in the race against Senator Walter George. That was the race when the late President Roosevelt backed Lawrence Camp in his purge campaign. George won.

* * *

TALMADGE EMERGED FROM political retirement in 1940 again to become governor, but two years later, after a heated campaign, he lost to Ellis Arnall.

When Arnall was prevented under a new state constitution from seeking reelection, Talmadge emerged again under his old banner of white supremacy, and was elected under the state's county unit system despite the fact that James V. Carmichael, who had Arnall's backing, took the popular vote.

His worst setback was in the race against Arnall four years ago, and it came on the heels of a row between Talmadge and officials of the state university system.

Talmadge charged two prominent state educators with advocating racial cooperation. The men denied the charges, declined to resign, and were upheld by the state board of regents.

SMITH PROPOSES STRIKE CONTROL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va), co-author of the war labor disputes act, today outlined a peacetime strike control program that would ban closed shops and provide indirectly for compulsory arbitration.

He told reporters yesterday he planned to introduce his bill when the new congress meets two weeks from today.

With Senator Connally (D-Tex), Smith wrote the wartime labor act which became law over President Roosevelt's veto. It gives the government power to seize plants involved in labor disputes and to prosecute union leaders who engineer strikes in seized industries.

Smith said his new bill was designed to cover the entire labor situation.

It would sharply revise the Wagner Labor Relations act and contains some provisions of the vetoed Case bill, the invalidated Lea-Petrillo radio act and the shelved Smith anti-strike bill of the 79th congress.

Its general provisions include:

1. Prohibit industry-wide collective bargaining and outlaw the closed shop which permits the employment of union workers only.

2. Deny collective bargaining rights to employes with the status of employer-representatives or supervisory officials; in effect, this would prevent the unionization of foremen.

3. Require all collective bargaining contracts involving public utilities or essential industries to contain a provision to submit all differences to arbitration without cessation of operation. Failure to sign such a contract would constitute an unfair labor practice and deprive the refusing party of protection under the National Labor Relations act. In effect, Smith said, this would amount to indirect compulsory arbitration.

4. Prohibit the use of force, violence or intimidation in labor disputes; mass picketing in such form as to threaten violence or intimidation; secondary boycotts and sympathy strikes.

5. Require labor unions to register and file annual financial statements.

MILITARY TRAINING CHEAPER THAN WAR

WASHINGTON— (INS)—Official data released yesterday estimated that the annual cost of universal military training would be 125-million dollars less than the expense of one and one-half days of war.

Disclosure of these statistics was timed with a meeting scheduled for 10 a. m., EST of President Truman's advisory commission on universal military training with the chief executive.

It coincided with estimates by military authorities that had universal military training been in operation before World War II the conflict would have been shortened by one year, saving about twenty billion dollars.

THE CHARGES against Mulligan were highway robbery, assault, and the murder of 11 policemen. The slickest criminal lawyer in town offered to defend him for a down payment of $3,000.

"I wouldn't pay no lawyer $3,000," shouted Mulligan.

"Okay," said the criminal lawyer. "Get somebody else to defend you. He'll only charge you $1,000, and you won't have to pay that. Your heirs will."

"No," said Greene, tucking his napkin carefully under his chin. "With potatoes."

Take Peek In Mirror, Men! See, You Have Possibilities

By CLAIRE COX

CHICAGO —(UP)— American women use cosmetics because they want to be as attractive as men, a male expert on what makes women beautiful said today.

The ladies worked so hard on their face building projects this year that they ran up an unprecedented cosmetics bill of $3,000,000,000, while the men remained as handsome as ever without spending a cent for rouge or lipstick, he said.

Dr. Ivor Griffith, Philadelphia, president and research director of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, said it was sad but true that men always have been more appealing to the eye than women.

"Humans are just like any other animals, as far as beauty goes," Griffith said. "Just look at the proud, strutting rooster and the timid brown hen. And the lion has been the beau brummel of the jungle while Mrs. Leo is an ill-tempered old shrew of a wife.

"Well, it's the same with women. They actually need more adornment than men, and they need more care of the body. For proof, just notice that a careless woman always looks worse than a careless man."

Griffith, who was in Chicago to address the American Chemical Society, said most women pined away in an unattractive state until about 1915. They started large scale lipstick purchases the day they first voted, and they've been caking it on ever since, he said.

"Women had inferiority complexes, and they had only a secondary place in family life," he said. "Now look at them. They are covered with cosmetics and winning the admiration of the men for their attempts to be beautiful."

Griffith said that women worked so hard this year at trying to give men some competition that they used 8,000 miles of lipstick—"enough to encompass the return trip from Hollywood to Coney Island."

They also used 750,000,000 boxes of face powder and 400,000,000 rouge compacts, he said.

"The average American woman spends $110 a year on cosmetics and beauty culture," he added. "They have made the soap and water advocate almost extinct.

"In fact, the women have carried their search for beauty so far that they are going to the beauty parlor more often than they go to church."

Drive carefully tomorrow—an accident now would ruin the prospects of a Merry Chrishmas.

In any event, Americans are very largely freed from what constituted "want" a half century ago.

A survey now discloses that the 1946 apple crop was the second highest on record—so there must be some other explanation for the high prices.

Friendly House Project Is a 'Must'

APPEARANCE of lag in the campaign to raise $60,000 to meet a part of the cost of building a new and more commodious Friendly House in Mansfield should surely not be construed as lack of interest in that worthy project, or failure of any considerable number of Mansfield people to realize the need for such facilities as can be provided by an adequate, modern community center.

It may be that some persons who would willingly contribute in accordance with their ability have gained an impression that only larger gifts are sought—and it should be made clear that contributions of $1, $5 and $10 will all help in reaching the required total.

While a complete canvass is impractical, anyone wishing to contribute either a small or large amount can do so at any Mansfield bank or at the campaign headquarters, Moorhead salesroom, Park avenue west.

A thought associated with plans for expansion of Friendly House facilities is revelation of the gravity of the juvenile problem on a national scale, with a high percentage of offenses committed by youths under the age of 21, and emphasis being placed on community responsibility to improve the environment of young people by providing wholesome recreational, entertainment and self-improvement facilities such as the supporters of a new Friendly House aspire to supply in Mansfield.

Many Schemes To Deceive the Unwary

A DISTRESSING phase of the joyous Christmas season is need for a warning against the unscrupulous racketeers who are not above profiting on the generosity of millions who are imbued with the spirit of giving and who are unsuspicious of the many schemes that have been evolved to deceive the unwary.

Better Business Bureaus in large cities over the country report that this year, as at other holiday seasons, racketeers are doing a booming business. By telephone, by mail and in door-to-door solicitation all kinds of fantastic money-getting schemes are promoted.

A racket revived from techniques used in war deaths, following obituary columns, is that of sending a bereaved family a C.O.D. package addressed to the deceased, for which the family pay a good price, assuming he had ordered it. On opening they discover it contains valueless items.

A Chicago group sends out certificates for three dollars, which promise to be worth as much as $1,000 when the concern has converted the government to the "Henry George ground rent plan," and the holders of the stock will be able to split the profits with the government. True followers of Henry George and his single tax plan have nothing to do with this and are outraged by the very idea.

Widows are approached by men representing themselves as from state unemployment and industrial commissions. Collecting sums of money, these solicitors promise to help in adjusting death claims, but neither they nor the money is heard of again.

Some new scheme is thought up every day and always trusting souls can be found who fall for it. "Investigate before you invest" is always a good idea.

Modern Shepherds Guard Their Flocks

SHEPHERDS are still tending flocks under Christmas skies, watching for the Christmas Star to rise over hill tops. Sheep's fleece and meat are as indispensable to man in the atomic age as they were to his ancestors thousands of years ago. Important the world around, the old occupation is a startling survival in industrial nations like Britain where sheep tending is carried on in open stretches from Scotland's craggy heights to Devon's smiling countryside.

Though many of England's shepherds are veterans of modern wars in far corners of the earth, they have resumed the age-long business of their fathers. In many sections their crooks are duplicates of those used by ancient Britons and their wool-clipping shears are no whit different from those of the Roman invaders. Neither have the sheep changed, nor the job of managing them.

One of the reasons for the everlasting appeal of the Christmas story is its link with this basic, essential job of mankind, this care of man's useful friend, the sheep. It was appropriate symbolism that had the Star beckon to shepherds, those faithful guardians of four-footed creatures at once so dependent and so necessary to man.

Maybe 'American' Language Is Needed

"TOO MUCH of teaching is correction rather than instruction," says Amanda Ellis, professor at Colorado State Teachers' college, in a report covering a nation-wide survey on the teaching of English. The report indicts English teachers, asserting that American youth do not speak understandingly or write well.

Blame for this was placed largely on a too heavy teaching load. Courses of study need to be revised, says the report, to permit a uniform aim from kindergarten through college. Also, word study, given up in many schools, should be re-emphasized as well as the relationship between grammar, vocabulary and sentence structure.

In other words, the country's teachers of English are not satisfied with their product. This is wholesome, and promises well. Certainly there is too much criticism from employers that graduates of the nation's high schools and colleges do not know how to spell, or how to write an acceptable letter. It is important that young Americans should become masters of their native tongue.

Ground whale meat is said to taste "very much like hamburger"—which indicates that hamburger is supposed to have some sort of distinguishing taste.

Claude Callan rather abruptly asserts: "Most of us average men think we are head and shoulders above the poor, lowly average man."

A check-up reveals that it has been almost two months since a new "miracle drug" has been publicized.

Word comes that the juke box tune is to go to a dime—but even that may not be prohibitive.

LOOKS LIKE ANOTHER TOUGH WINTER

Labor Leaders Realize Inability To Assume Management Duties

By RAYMOND MOLEY

IN ALL the talk about labor in 1946, one topic has been conspicuous by its absence: the idea of labor participation in management.

This was a popular subject after the first World war. Many companies had introduced schemes for "economic democracy" in the war years and lost no opportunity to tell about them. But in the ten years before the depression these ideas petered out. Some of the "forward looking" companies failed. Most of the rest lost interest in their plans.

Organized labor never really cared for management responsibility. It simply wanted more pay, tighter control of employment and stronger unions.

Management has become a more and more highly technical profession. Labor leaders, meanwhile, have devoted their study to the art of politics, a subject quite removed from the science of management. And so the leaders of labor and the masters of management have drifted farther and farther apart.

The most notable effort of a labor leader to tell management how to run a business was the Reuther Plan of 1941. Reuther's idea had to do with the conversion of automobile factories into war plants. "Look at all the machines that are not working," said he, "let them make guns and shells."

The absurdity in his argument was apparent to nearly all except a few New Deal columnists in Washington. It is questionable whether even Reuther believed in it. The fact is that new products need new machines. An automobile is not a gun or a bomber.

Conversion for war progressed far faster than Reuther or any other labor leader predicted.

It succeeded massively because management knew how to produce what the army and navy wanted, as soon as the army and navy knew what they wanted.

Vast progress was made in the technique of production during the war, and the gaps in labor leaders' knowledge became wider. They know this and hence limit their demands to a larger share in the product and to measures, like the unionizing of foremen, which will hamper management.

European experience with "democracy" in management is a sad tale. After the first World war, unions in Italy took over various factories and made a terrible mess of it.

German workers, in the short revolution of 1918-19, were practical enough not to try management! They limited their claims to membership in boards of directors and set up an overall German economic parliament or Reich's economic council. This experiment was deplorable. Labor members never comprehended the complexities of cost accounting, marketing, finance and foreign trade.

Another feature of American unions makes the idea of participation in management even more impractical than it proved itself in Europe. There is little democracy in the unions themselves.

The dictatorship of men like Lewis and Whitney is largely based not only on provisions in union constitutions, but on the economic power derived from initiation fees, dues and other union funds.

Politics has been a better provider for our union leaders than has knowledge of business administration. Power without responsibility is the result.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Dec. 21, 1926

Announcement was made that Richland Savings bank and Bank of Mansfield planned to merge first of year.

Joseph Settlemyer, 91, died at his home, 341 South Main street.

Edward W. Dann was elected president of Kiwanis club at meeting of directors, held at Elks grill.

H. J. Norton moved from 800 Park avenue west to 55 South Mulberry street.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Germann, 74 Buckingham street; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Clark Zediker, 475 South Main street.

Christian C. Gimbel sold grocery at 222 Glessner avenue to W. O. Jefferson.

William Parsell, oldest resident of Richland county (aged almost 102 years), died at his home in Plymouth.

Five-year-old William Logos was injured when struck by auto at intersection of Bowman and Harker streets.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

On December 21, 1912, the European powers agreed on the principle of Albanian autonomy, with the provision guaranteeing Servia access to the sea.

Dave Boone Says:

PRESIDENT TRUMAN says 1947 will be a good year provided everybody stays at work. That establishes Harry as a fellow who plays it extra safe when it comes to prophecy.

* * *

If everybody stayed at work for one full day in this country it would work wonders with the economic picture, so I'll go Harry one better and bet that if everybody stayed on the job one full month in 1947 it would be a year of years.

* * *

But there's small chance of it. There hasn't been a day when everybody stayed on the job for so many years that if anything like it happened in America we would never recognize the place.

* * *

Production would get into full swing, business would be good, wages would be better, consumers would get over their headaches and labor and capital would be happy. That's a situation some people would never stand for, I'm afraid.

Daily Bible Thought

The grass witheresth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand forever.—Isaiah 40:8.

Calvin A. Byers

Farmer's Diary: "House Plants."

ALL summer when we sat at evening on the bench against the house we enjoyed the sprightly colors and the fragrance of the petunias, fuchsia and geraniums in the box at the edge of our rough plank porch. They grew wildly well from a diet of woods dirt and wood ashes, sand and scrapings of the compost heap.

A pleasing hum of bees was never absent from the tender little jungle, on sunny days and nearing dusk in autumn, we frequently observed the hummingbird moth thrust its tongue into the throat of each petunia, then fly noisily away.

The potted fuchsia was a gift last spring. Unwilling to disturb its roots, my wife merely set it into the porch box, pot and all, and covered it with earth. It bloomed like crazy. Every stem had festoons of scarlet and purple. At one time there were 18 unfolded blooms at once upon the single plant.

This fall, when the box was dismantled and the plants brought indoors, a whole new root system had burst out through the single round hole in the bottom of the pot and spread through the surrounding earth. The cramped root condition probably caused the profusion of bloom, since nature's way is to encourage reproduction and seeding in spite of hardship.

In fact, a handicap may cause fruition of fruit trees, in a similar way. An orchardist recently told me that by running a knife around certain limbs, he had caused young trees to bloom and bear fruit earlier than they otherwise would have done.

Old Bones found her stall unfastened and browsed on the lawn early one morning, while we were still asleep . . . and as a final flourish, to celebrate her freedom, she dined upon the contents of the flower box. The close-cropped stems confronted us when we came forth.

For two weeks more we left the ruins there—it rained—the sprouts of leaf green began to reappear. So my wife brought them into the south kitchen window, behind the wood range, and now the uneven line of greenery has new buds showing. When snow sifts through the bare apple limbs outside the low small panes, and warmth and homey comfort are within, the tender green of spring is challenge to the roughest winter wind.

Geraniums, a primrose, a trailing vine or two, the fuchsia and another plant that I don't know the name of. Each early morning when I start the fire, I stand close to note the change in growth. Strange how it takes such simple things to make a homey atmosphere.

Placing Responsibility.

Gambling and bookmaking, those sources of a community's infection wherever they are tolerated, have created a new record with the indictment of the entire city commission of East St. Louis, Ill.

For years St. Clair county appeared little different from any other community displaying a relaxed and tolerant attitude toward a few bookies and houses where the citizen with money to lose could find his pleasure in losing it. Then suddenly, with the arrest of two men charged with operating gambling places only a half block from the city hall, the people of East St. Louis awoke to find their mayor, the commissioners and a deputy sheriff all under indictment for "palpable omission of duty."

The people anywhere convict themselves of a similar "omission" when they open their community to the first spots of this plague which cannot be checked but only stamped out.—Dayton News.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Plans of New Congress To Curb Labor Strife Start Taking Form

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEADERS of the new 80th congress, which will convene January 3 in Washington, are determined to draft new labor legislation which will drastically change the rules under which unions have been operating. Republican leaders have indicated privately that a bill calling for compulsory arbitration of all disputes affecting the public interest will be pressed soon after the lawmakers are in session.

Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) declared he saw no reason why congress should await the decision of the Supreme Court in the battle of the injunction stemming out of the soft coal strike. "It is the task of the Court to determine what the law is," said Taft, "and it is the job of congress to decide what the law should be."

One industry-labor proposal that congress narrow promised labor law reforms to let unions and management seek peace on their own drew a "too late" response from some Republican quarters. The proposal came from a committee representing the AFL, the CIO, the National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

New Laws "Inevitable".

Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio), said that recurrent strikes mean new labor legislation is inevitable.

"These recommendations come at a pretty late date," Brown declared. "If these people have the answer to their difficulties why haven't they used it before, or if they have used it, why hasn't it worked?"

The industry-labor committee—set up last year as an advisory group to the labor department—suggested wider use of voluntary arbitration clauses in union-employer contracts.

Second Round Coming Up.

Meanwhile CIO President Philip Murray renewed his contention that present industrial profit levels justify a new wage boost for labor. His organization's three biggest unions—steel, auto and electrical—convened in Pittsburgh to plan joint strategy for a new round of demands.

That argument was countered by Walter B. Weisenburger, vice president of the N. A. M., who declared: "The theory that wages can be increased while prices are held at present levels or lower is just as false now as it was when first promulgated a year ago."

C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, said that labor constituted by far the greatest cost in automobile manufacture and that a "20 or 25 per cent increase in wages will mean a 20 or 25 per cent boost in car prices."

At Home

Postwar Challenge.

The collapse of a New York City tenement, killing 37 persons, after a fire set by a group of boys 13 years of age or younger, highlights one aspect of America's rising crime wave.

New York Fire Commissioner Frank J. Quayle in a radio talk placed responsibility on the parents, pointing out that each boy had a record of previous delinquency. Both parents of one of the boys, he said, were found "heavily under the influence of liquor." Chief Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy declared that too many parents are "more interested in tavern life than home life."

Opening a recent national conference on juvenile delinquency in Washington, President Truman said: "The roots of the juvenile delinquency problem still lie in the homes, the schools, the neighborhoods and the churches of our nation."

* * *

United Nations Capital.

After nearly a year of house-hunting, the United Nations finally picked its site. In that time the U.N. had been petitioned and propagandized by scores of American communities angling for the title of World Capital. There were heated arguments pro and con over Westchester, Stamford, Boston, New York's World Fair Grounds, San Francisco, Philadelphia.

The $8,500,000 Manhattan tract along the East River between 42nd and 48th streets, donated by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was a surprising, last-minute selection. It had only 17 acres instead of the 140 square miles the U.N. once thought necessary for a permanent home.

Forty-five hours after the Rockfeller offer was made, the headquarters committee accepted, and the General Assembly made it official by a vote of 46 to 7.

* * *

Partial Unification.

The army and navy, with the bitter experience of Pearl Harbor in mind, agreed on unified area command for the armed forces abroad but did not attempt to settle the still hot dispute over merger at home.

The joint chiefs of staff, concluding a long series of negotiations, drafted a plan in which overseas forces will be under operational command of a single man—army, navy or air as the situation dictates.

The unification chart established seven overseas commands, by shifting some of the area which Gen. Douglas MacArthur controls to the navy, re-establishing some prewar areas and creating a new Northeast Command, its details as yet undisclosed.

The unified command system in the field was used universally during the war but survived V-E and V-J days in only a few areas.

Abroad

Germans Are "Paying."

Germans now are reaping a part of the wild whirlwind their fuehrer sowed. The aftermath of war has left the Herrenvolk a defeated people, existing under occupation rule in economic chaos, short of food, housing, fuel, clothing. As always, children are the pathetic sufferers.

An American military government survey in Greater Hesse disclosed babies in rags barely able to survive in crowded, rain-drenched ruins.

It will cost American taxpayers about $171,000,000 next year to feed Germans in the U. S. occupation zone while Germans in the Russian-occupied zone eat home grown food at no cost to Moscow, reported the senate war investigating committee.

Burial of a Hero.

Wu Pei-Fu, one of China's most renowned warlords, was buried in Peiping last week, a little more than seven years after his mysterious death.

Military governor of Chihli Province at 38 and a full marshal at 45, Wu retired in 1927 after defeat in battle by forces under China's present Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The Japanese repeatedly pressed Wu to head a puppet government in Chnia such as they later set up under Wang Ching-wei, but he steadfastly refused. Wu died suddenly on December 4, 1939, at 61. Chinese generally believed the Japanese poisoned him.

Even though Wu had fought Chiang Kai-shek, the National government conferred on him the posthumous title of "General of the First Rank." His body was placed in a Peiping temple and lay there undisturbed by the Japanese. Last week, after seven years, Wu was given an elaborate public burial service.

Royal Romance.

When love comes to British royalty it is not a matter to be taken lightly. Under the Royal Marriage Act, consent of the king, the prime minister and the privy council must be obtained. Ten years ago this month, the Duke of Windsor then King Edward VIII renounced the throne for "the woman I love."

British officialdom is nodding benignly, however, at the possibility that Princess Elizabeth—Britain's future queen—may marry Prince Philip of Greece, although reiterating that engagement reports still are only rumor.

More Is Expected of Federal Government.

WASHINGTON—It may be recalled that the last congress, after much soul-searching and many compromises, finally enacted the so-called employment act of 1946, which had started out under the alluring title of "The Full Employment Bill."

It also will be recalled that after much deliberation President Truman eventually appointed the three members of the council of economic advisers.

Their duties are to advise him about the economic status and prospects of the country in order that he may report to congress and, if necessary, recommend measures to keep the economy in balance.

Once this report goes to congress a joint congressional committee—seven senators and seven house members—study it and report their recommendations to congress.

The council, consisting of Edwin G. Nourse, chairman; Leon H. Keyserling, vice chairman, and John D. Clark, now has made its first report to the president. While there was much emphasis on its rather vague forecasts of the immediate and long-time future prospects, of more significance is the council's definition of its own functions and philosophy. For it is a new departure in government.

For the first time, the enabling act and the machinery set up under it recognize officially that the government, as such, has a responsibility of its own, in co-operation with other groups and private agencies, it is true.

This responsibility is to keep economic forces in proper adjustment so that the economy will be healthy and stable, and to promote conditions under which there will be employment opportunities for all who are able and want to work.

Nowhere is there any guarantee of jobs. That should be made clear. That was the original idea which congress skillfully avoided. But its goal of a continuously sound economy comes closer to that implication than anything we have yet done.

"The employment act of 1946," the council says, "marks a distinct and important step in the evolution of our national life and our frame of democratic government."

The council compares the order in economic planning and legislation which is sought by the act and its machinery to that achieved in our fiscal estimates and legislation by the budget act of 25 years ago which set up the budget bureau.

"The outstanding feature of this procedure is that it tends to unite the president and congress through mutual consideration of national economic policy as a co-ordinated whole instead of proceeding in an unrelated, piecemeal fashion," it says.

Speaking of the great increase in the burdens and responsibility of the president and congress in recent years, the council explains that one factor "is the fact that the mass of citizens has come to expect and, indeed, as voters to demand, of their federal government a more active role of leadership in dealing with matters which affect the nation's economic life."

The council condemns the "riding-out-the cycle" philosophy which, it says, is still the remedy for depressions advocated by some people.

On the other hand, it sees no lasting efficacy in the spending philosophy used by the New Deal to pump in purchasing power as a cure-all, although conceding that the government can use such means along with other economic remedies through co-operation with private business and labor and state and local governments. Over-all, it offers a middle way.

CHILDREN GIVEN MAJOR ROLES IN YULE SEASON

Nativity Scene Basic Theme for Worship Hours.

By NITA BRANSON

The age-old heralding of the birth of the Christ Child in Bethlehem's stable, will accent Christmas worship in Mansfield churches tomorrow.

Children will gather to lift their young voices in words and songs of praise and adults will add their hymns of worship for the "newborn king."

In many churches, the younger members of the congregations will present Christmas programs of recitations, songs, and exercises and in several churches, plays and pantomimes. Some of these programs will feature the morning worship hours; others will take place tomorrow night.

But the basic theme of all programs and worship will be the nativity scene in the manger, where wise men and shepherds gathered in adoration for the infant child Jesus.

* * *

AT THE ST. MATTHEW'S Lutheran church, Mrs. Charles Sheriff, wife of the pastor, will present a Christmas story at the 10:30 a. m. service. The story "Behold the Star" was written by Mrs. Sheriff and she will be in costume appropriate to the story setting. The choir will present the musical background.

Programs by the children will feature the morning worship of the First Church of God, the First English Lutheran, St. John's Evangelical, and St. Paul's Lutheran.

At the St. Paul's the program will be given during the regular Sunday school period at 9:15 a. m. under the direction of Mrs. Harold Lutz, Mrs. Russell Hawk, Mrs. Peter Rabel, Mrs. Hugh Sturgeon, Mrs. Carl Wander and Mrs. Nora Weidner.

* * *

"CHRISTMAS WITH OUR children" will be the keynote of the Sunday school service at St. John's when nursery, beginners and primary departments present recitations, songs, dialogues, and tableaux. A Christmas treat will follow this service.

During the worship hour at 10:30 a. m. the pastor, Rev. Paul H. Saleste, will baptize a large class of babies.

The children's Christmas program at the First Church of God, 265 West Third street, will be presented at 10:15 a. m. and will be followed by the annual yuletide treat.

The annual program at the First English Lutheran church, will be a part of the regular Sunday School hour at 10:45 a. m. It will be given under the direction of L. J. Cashell, superintendent.

* * *

WORSHIP WILL CONTINUE throughout the day. Several of the churches will present musical vespers at 4 p. m. Among these are the United Presbyterian and the First Methodist churches. Special programs of Christmas music by the choir and organist will feature these vespers. At 5 p. m. the Emanuel church, 331 Wayne street will present its annual program.

At the Central Methodist church a pageant, "The Holy Night," written and arranged by the pastor, Rev. J. Frank Stewart, will be given at 7:30 p. m.

With but two or three exceptions, all other churches of the city will hold their annual yuletide programs and treats for the children Sunday afternoons or evening.

The exceptions will be those several churches which have planned a Monday evening presentation of their children.

Services will be climaxed Tuesday night when several churches hold the beautiful and reverent candlelight services, most of them at midnight. These churches include: Grace Episcopal, St. Luke's Lutheran, St. Matthew's Lutheran, St. John's Evangelical, Main Street Evangelical, United Brethren, Mt. Calvary Baptist, Friendly Mission, St. Paul's Lutheran, St. Mark's Lutheran and the First English Lutheran churches.

"THEY . . . FELL DOWN AND WORSHIPPED HIM"—What more appropriate than that little children should interpret the nativity scene? Above, small members of the St. Matthew's Sunday school present the "adoration" scene in the Bethlehem manger. The pantomime was given during the annual Christmas program last night. From left to right, they are: Gary Penny and Bobby Gurts, a shepherds; David Bonar, Richard Leech and David Graham as the wise men; Karen Kramer and Marcia Meils as angels; Larry Myer as Joseph, and Sandra Shanks as Mary; Ronald Mabee, Duane Osborne and Jerry Murphy, also as shepherds. Browns Two TD Favorites In Spite Of Snow

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A six-hour snowfall, that was scheduled to stop sometime early today, gave indications that tomorrow's crowd at the All-America conference championship football game might have to suffer as did the point-a-minute throng at last year's National Football league clash here.

That game involved the Cleveland Rams and the Washington Redskins while tomorrow's encounter headlines the Cleveland Browns, winners of the Western division title, and the New York Yankees, Eastern title winners, in the first championship game of the young All-America circuit.

Despite the snow and sleet, it is predicted that Sunday's weather would be cold, clear and sunny with the mercury in Cleveland's huge Lakeside stadium shivering somewhere in the neighborhood of 20 degrees.

If the weatherman shows the least bit of cooperation it is expected that the crowd will be near 50,000 as contrasted with the 38,000 who froze in the National league final a year ago when the temperature skidded to three below zero.

Coach Paul Brown of the Clevelanders, who remain 13½ point favorites although all their right halfbacks are ailing, has equipped his Brownies with canvas shots, special arctic-style headgears, gloves and chemical pads that may be palmed and which serve as miniature stoves when dampened by a few drops of moisture.

Against the T-minded Browns the New Yorkers will show an old-time single wing attack with old timer Ace Parker as the chief factor. Parker, veteran of eight National league campaigns, established a pro passing record this season by flinging 115 aerials with only three being touched by enemy hands.

In addition, the Yankees have Orban (Spec) Sanders, the loop's leading ground gainer and Eddie Prokop, a Cleveland lad who starred at Georgia Tech before coming north.

• • •

Charlie Trippi, Georgia's All-America halfback, was chosen by the defunct Miami club in the All-America conference's first draft early today and immediately was swapped to the New York Yankees to touch off a battle of dollars that likely will be without a parallel in sports.

Trippi, regarded as one of the greatest of modern natural athletes, was drafted a week ago by the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football league and was selected by Hampton Pool, coach of the Seahawks, on the first draw here.

The draft in the two leagues gives those two club owners the right to deal for Trippi's signature on a player's contract and the bonus the Dixie dynamiter will get for that bit of penmanship is expected to erase the record $30,000 offered to Whizzer White of Colorado, by Pittsburgh in prewar days.

Glenn Davis and Felix (Doc) Blanchard, Army's touchdown twins of the past three years, also were drafted in the session that started late last night and continued right through until early today. Davis was selected by the San Francisco 49ers and Blanchard by Brooklyn but because both are likely to remain in the army, the bidding for them is not expected to reach the Trippi proportions.

Davis was chosen by the Detroit Lions in the National league meeting at New York a week ago while Blanchard, who had a year of football at North Carolina before coming to Army, was tapped by the Pittsburgh Steelers of the senior league a year ago.

White's bonus is the highest known in pro football and is one of few that entered into five figures among gridiron athletes.

Millionaire Dan Topping, owner of the New York football Yankees, will uphold the prestige of the young All-America circuit in this battle of dollars while Charles Bidwell, owner of the Cardinals, is the National league representative.

Other players selected early today, before the clubowners adjourned until noon, are Dick Hoener of the University of Iowa, first selection of the Cleveland Browns; and Frank Barzilauskas, Yale lineman, and Gene Roberts, Chattanooga's little All-America back, by Brooklyn.

Pool represented "Club X" in the drawing, the Miami eleven having been expelled yesterday from the circuit for failure to fill contractural obligations. League Attorney Louis Carroll said the Miami franchise no longer existed and that if an eighth club was admitted a new franchise would be awarded.

After the decision on Miami was reached Robert Rodenberg, former Washington newspaper man, presented his request for a Baltimore franchise to the league fathers, and told newsmen later "he was very optimistic."

Tiger Slugger Wins RBI Title

NEW YORK — (INS) — Official American league batting averages disclosed today why Hank Greenberg, the big slugger of the Detroit Tigers, is demanding that his salary be hiked $10,000 to $75,000 next season.

Greenberg, who may quit the game unless he is transferred to the New York Yankees, led hitters of the junior circuit in 1946 in that all-important department, runs-batted-in. This is the fourth time in his illustrious major league career that Hankus Pankus has captured this prized honor.

Greenberg, who will be 36 in a few days, knocked in 127 runs, four more than Terrible Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox. And Hank rolled up the second highest slugging percentage during the AL campaign. His .604 was topped only by Williams' .667.

Williams also drew the most bases on balls, 156.

Pat Seerey, long-distance hitter of the Cleveland Indians, whose shoelaces come loose every time he takes a cut at the ball, again was the "whiffingest" player

Try to Break Ice.

The Cleveland Barons will be trying to break back into the win column tonight when they face league-leading Hershey in the Bears' first appearance of the season on Cleveland Arena ice.

CARNIVAL THRILLS CAGE FANS

Mansfield Nips Libbey; Bexley Edges Akron 5

By FRED THARP, News-Journal Sports Editor.

Do you like your basketball of the "dog eat dog" variety?

If so, the place to find it will be at the Senior high school gymnasium tonight when the final contests of the first annual Tyger cage carnival are played beginning at 7:30—that is if last night's sensational play can serve as a criterion.

For the two games on the opening card ended the same way, with one point providing the margin of victory. Results were particularly sweet for Vern Hoffman's Mansfield Tygers as they upset a favored Toledo Libbey aggregation in the finals, 41 to 40.

Columbus Bexley and Akron North hooked up in a thriller to open the hoop festival with the former club ekeing out a 46 to 45 victory.

Tonight's docket lists North and Libbey in the opener and Mansfield and Bexley in the second clash. Ticket gate will open at 6:30.

Mansfield had to dig deep into its usual last-half bag of tricks to collect victory No. 4. The clincher came in the last three seconds when Chuck Sisco stepped more or less calmly to the foul line and arched the leather through the hoop.

But before that, plenty of basketball was presented for the thorough edification of the 900 fans that braved the first visit of the flurry winter god—old man winter. Until the final period Mansfield and Libbey battled on even terms with never more than three points separating the opponents.

Mansfield held tightly a 30 to 29 advantage early in the final period after the lead had exchanged custodians six times. Then Nick Gagich caged a foul shot, Ollie Cline and Sisco hit from the court and the latter dumped in a free throw.

That seven point advantage looked mighty sweet but Libbey clicked for five fast points and it was anybody's game again. With two minutes left, Tommy Bloor slipped a one-hander through the mesh. Then Rubelle Ashley and Gagich traded baskets.

Gerald Palmer hit a desperation long shot and Ashley, a whale of a ball player, stole the ball and dribbled the length of the court to knot the score in the concluding 14 seconds. Sisco was fouled in a vain attempt to get the melon and the ensuing connection wrapped up the result.

Vern Hoffman pulled a surprise and had his two cripples in at the start. Ralph Majors, the ball-hawking forward, went half the game while Gagich played three-quarters of the way. The latter made five important points in the fourth period and was an aggressive threat off both backboards.

The Tygers led at the first quarter 12-10 but trailed at the other two intermission points, 18-15 and 26-25.

Sisco and Ashley vied for scoring honors with 14 apiece. Actually the game was won from the gratis line with Mansfield getting 11 of 17 and the visitors only four of 14.

A lad, who was running a slight fever before the game, gave Akron North many feverish moments in the opening clash. In fact blond Carl Johnson had the temperatures of the crowd running at a merry gate as he dumped 28 Bexley points through the hoop. Johnson has averaged 15.4 points in leading the Columbus quintet to three wins in five starts.

Helping in the hoop-fever department were a pair of little one-handed experts of the Akron North aggregation. Vernon Petrie, forward, and Sal Crano, sub guard, rammed home seven one-handers apiece from any and all spots on the Tyger hardwood.

The North club, second in Ohio Class A circles last season, exhibited their best 1946-47 form but inaccuracy from the foul line proved their undoing. North has yet to win a game but had the smooth passing Bexley outfit on the ropes and reeling throughout the second half. Bexley made 10 of 17, North three of 10.

Bexley led at the quarter, 13-7, and at the half 26-21, but the complexion of the game changed in the last 16 minutes. At one four-minute stage in the torrid third chukker the lead changed hands seven times.

However, Carleton Smith's Columbus team managed to hang onto a 39-37 margin as the final period opened. A Johnson left-hander connection increased the lead but Petrie dumped in two in quick order to tie it up. Fred Nagle's foul shot put Bexley back in front but Russ Beal hit from the sidelines for North.

A rebound connection by Nagle and another Johnson bucket gave Bexley a three-point lead with two minutes to go.

The Lions decided to stall and the pressing North team committed four fouls. Each time Bexley took the ball out of bounds but North cut the lead to one point when Bob Shank sunk a one-hander from the side with 14 seconds showing on the clock.

Butler Notches Sixth In County League Play

Powerful Butler survived its toughest test of the season last night on the Lexington hardwood.

The Bulldogs, who have one of the state's top offensive marks, snowed Lexington under, 52 to 31, for their sixth straight Richland county victory. The first quarter was mighty close with Butler holding a 12 to 9 advantage.

However, Coach Ed Wysocki's lads gradually increased their advantage and was in front at the other intermission points, 22 to 12, and 34 to 20. Douglas Weber and Estley Maglott each had 10 points for Butler.

Bob Bierly held Lexington's Rollin Ford to seven points and chalked up six himself. John Rees' Minutemen again played without the services of Ray Cline, 6-2 center.

Butler has scored 290 points in six league contests, an average of 48.3.

Bellville took complete charge of second place in the county loop by running over Union, 46-28. Coach Orville Kibler's cagers have won five games in six contests.

Homer Walker and Dave Worner scored 10 markers each to lead Bellville offensively. Union's forward, Dill, was high man with 15 points.

The Bluejays led at the quarters 13-8, 25-14, and 40-20.

Ontario defeated Lucas, 36-27, to break into a two-way tie for third place with Lexington.

Coach Robert Casad's quintet led, 8-7 at the end of the first period, and trailed at the half, 18-13. The score was tied, 25-25, at the three-quarter mark. Miller scored 15 tallies for Ontario and J. Sunnucks, sub guard, tallied 10 points in the last half for the victors.

Don Stake, county individual scoring leader, was held to 11 markers in last night's game.

In the other county league contest, Plymouth easily set back Shiloh, 41-22. Plymouth started an all-sophomore team.

Bob Hampton set the pace for the winners with seven field goals and five free throws for 19 points.

The Lucas reserves dropped their game to Ontario, 21-13.

REDDY DIGS FOR A DINNER

Reddy Fox had watched Farmer Brown's boy break the crust and set free two grouse who had been held prisoners in the snow beneath it. What were Reddy's feelings? Well, if you were very, very hungry and saw a dinner fly away how would you feel? Reddy felt that way. He had discovered where those birds were before pecking at that crust trying to break through it, and had come to their rescue. So Reddy felt that those grouse belonged to him even though he was unable to break through the crust and catch them.

As soon as the way was clear he had come out of hiding and investigated the places where the crust had been broken. Perhaps he hoped there might still be in one of them a grouse who hadn't flown, or perhaps it was just curiosity, or a little of both.

He dug away some of the snow at both places and sniffed about. He found only two or three feathers. Of course they were only pointment, but not too great a an aggravation. Or was a disappone? He hadn't really expected anything better. He was just making sure that he wasn't overlooking anything. Long ago he learned never to take things for granted, but to make sure that they are as they appear to be. Thus he has found good dinners where there had seemed no chance of finding anything.

He was just about to go on his way when the faintest of sounds was caught by his keen ears. It was so faint that only ears as keen as his could have heard it. He stood there in the snow as still as if he had been frozen there. It was sometime before he heard it repeated. His lips drew back in a grin.

"There is still another one," thought he, and began to move on the crust to the spot from which those faint tapping sounds had seemed to come. He walked softly, and no one can walk more softly than Reddy Fox. Every few steps he stopped to listen. At last those sounds came from right under his black fore paws. He knew that only that crust of ice was between those black paws and the best of dinners. And how he did need that dinner! Pecking at the underside of that crust was hungry hopelessness. Listening just above was hungry hopefulness.

For a few minutes Reddy sat there listening and trying to think what to do. He knew he couldn't break through that crust. Trying to would be a waste of time and result only in sore feet and disappointment. He looked over to the nearest of the two places where Farmer Brown's boy had broken the crust. He wished it was nearer, but wishing wouldn't bring it any nearer.

He trotted over to it, jumped in where he had dug before, and began digging again. This time instead of digging around aimlessly he started diggin straight in one direction, toward where he had heard that Grouse.

"If I can't dig down through this crust I can dig under it," thought he as he kicked the snow out behind him.

What he had started to do was to burrow under that crust just as he and Mrs. Reddy had burrowed long entrance tunnels in the Old Pasture. Reddy is a good digger and snow under the hard crust was soft enough to make easy digging.

He dug with his fore paws and kicked the snow back behind him. He didn't mind the work for that big bird would make a dinner worth working for in these hard times. When he had dug in a little way he had to back out, pushing the loose snow behind him. This is what he was doing when Farmer Brown's boy returned and stood still as he caught a glimpse of a red coat. Reddy didn't see him. He was too intent on what he was doing, and what he still had to do, to look around. Of course when he was in the tunnel he was digging he could neither see nor hear anything outside. So he didn't know of the approach of Farmer Brown's boy. And the helpless prisoner under the pitiless crust made by Jack Frost knew nothing of either Reddy Fox or Farmer Brown's boy.

193 FARMERS TO GET $26,220 ON LOAN STOCK

Clearing Up of Depression Losses Permits Payment.

One hundred ninety-three Richland county farmers who have paid off their Federal Land bank loans during the past few years will have an extra reason for being happy this Christmas, according to Vance Clever, secretary-treasurer of the Richland County National Farm Loan association.

A letter is on the way to each of these 193 farmers, telling them that the stock they once held in the National Farm Loan association will be redeemed at par value, upon presentation of the certificates they now hold at Clever's office, 225 East Third street.

The total to be distributed amounts to $26,220. The amount due each individual will vary from $15 to $550.

According to Clever, redemption of this stock had been delayed because of some losses which occurred in the depression years."

"These losses have now all been cleared up, and sufficient reserves provided to safeguard against future losses which can be anticipated, so it is expected stock will be redeemed promptly in the future, and that a substantial dividend will be distributed to stockholders at the next annual meeting in January," he added.

Fred W. Dill of Bellville is president of the county Farm Loan association and G. H. Culler of Lucas, vice president. Other directors are Fred C. Dawson, Shiloh, Hugh Osbun, Mansfield, R. D. 1, and G. D. Rader, Mansfield, R. D. 6.

Farmers in all 18 townships of Richland county will be represented in the distribution of this $26,220

Barclay On Bridge

BARRING those cases in which it gets ruffed or has to be discarded, or something, an ace may be considered as having the positive value of one trick on either attack or defense. It has, of course, an extra value as an entry, or in promoting the value of lower honors opposite it. But of itself it figures to take exactly one trick. That is by no means sure of the secondary honors, such as kings, queens, jacks and tens. What they can take depends not only on what honors are opposite, but what honors are at the right or the left. Their value, therefore, varies terrifically.

West led the J of his partner's spades. East let it run to the K. Seeing the need of dummy entries, South decided to seek one by ruffing, so led his spade 8. East won with the 10 and returned his heart 9. South played his A, so he could promptly ruff his last spade with the heart Q. The diamond Q scored, the J was covered by the K and A, then South settled the outstanding trumps with a lead to the K. He ruffed the club A and ran the rest of the tricks.

Notice how valuable North's low-ranking honors became because of South's having honors opposite them. The heart Q and the diamond honors between them took three tricks. Now notice what happened to standard valuations. South ordinarily would count his hearts as worth about five playing tricks, his diamond A raising his total to six and his spade K to six and a half. He took 11 tricks, however, losing only one in spades and one in hearts

In other words, North's "holding, together with the fortitous location of defensive honors, enabled South to take four and a half more tricks than he originally counted. In other words, as many as would come from four aces, plus a queen under one of them, due to promotional and positional value of honors and distribution.

Four-Inch Snow Cause Of Dozen Auto Accidents

County Road Maintenance Crews Slated For 24-Hour Schedule If Forecast Of Greater Fall Materializes.

The heaviest snowfall of the year rolled out the white carpet for the official appearance of Old Man Winter tomorrow, but kept city and county road maintenance crews busy most of Saturday pulling skidded cars out of ditches and clearing highways and streets for motorists.

Additional snow, or rain, ending by early tonight, was forecast by the weather bureau. Little change in temperature was expected.

No injuries were reported as the result of the more than a dozen "fender bending" mishaps, most of which occurred in the city last night and early today. State patrolmen reported three minor incidents on U. S. Routes 42 and 30, and termed roads "hazardous."

Warnings to "drive carefully" were sent out by highway patrolmen and county officials as accidents mounted throughout the state.

Snow, sleet, rain and fog delayed holiday travelers throughout the eastern states where the snowfall reached 10 inches in some areas. Trains were reported running late and airmail was shifted to rail. Local snowfall averaged four inches.

It's a Gay Holiday In Scio, Ohio

SCIO—(AP)—This village of 1,400 was a "boom town" today as 827 Scio-Ohio pottery employes pondered how to spend—or save—$705,686 in Christmas bonus checks from their boss, L. P. Reese, a relief recipient 14 years ago.

The Scio bank was ready for a rush of business, and Cashier William Hughes observed happily: "This will play the dickens with the notes at our bank."

The money was handed out at a pre-holiday surprise party last night.

Interviews with many who received the maximum bonus of $3,500 indicated much of the money would be used to pay debts, increase savings and buy bonds.

Rags to Riches Tale.

The 53-year-old Reese, penniless in 1932 when he began building an abandoned pottery into a $3,000,000 plant, explained his gifts thus:

"I've got all the money I need, and my ambition is to keep my employes the highest paid pottery workers in the world."

Along with the bonus, he announced a 20-cent-an-hour increase in wages, with a $1 hourly minimum for unskilled workers.

To 88 men and women who had been with his pottery for at least 10 of its 14-year existence, Reese gave bonuses of $3,500. The average bonus was $852.50, and the smallest, $10 for new employes.

Workers Dazed.

Most of the 10-year employes glanced at the checks and were dazed. Some walked away with rubbery legs but recovered and ran back to thank Reese and shake his hand.

Reese had another surprise for his community—a new home for the American Legion, which had been raising funds for that purpose.

NORMA MAKES A CLEAN SWEEP—Pretty, six-year-old Norma Eggerton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Eggerton, 376 Newman street, industriously cleans off the snow-laden steps of her neighbor's house at 398 Newman street this morning. Norma often visits her neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Butler, and so, with Santa Claus soon to visit here, she diligently swept the steps and sidewalk.—(News-Journal staff photo by George Petrovic)

Hundreds Die As Sea Floods Coastal Area

Fragmentary Reports of Devastation Reveal Widespread Destruction to Towns, Cities of Nippon.

TOKYO — (AP) — A violent earthquake—possibly the world's heaviest—and the severe tidal wave it erupted off Wakayama peninsula today wreaked death and destruction over 15,000 square miles of southern Japan.

U. S. Army and Japanese sources released these fragmentary reports:

500 Japanese dead.
612 Japanese injured.
42 Japanese and British occupation soldier missing.
4,500 homes destroyed.
9,044 homes heavily damaged.
14,000 dwellings flooded.
500 fishing vessels destroyed.

Kushimoto, a fishing town of 10,000 on the southern tip of Wakayama peninsula—at the southeastern tip of Honshu—was reported washed away by seven-foot waves.

Fire destroyed one third of Shingu, on the east coast of Honshu, and U. S. Army fliers said flames still were visible there this afternoon.

The temblor was recorded at 4:20 a. m. (2:20 p. m. Friday, EST). Slight tremors followed about every half hour.

Damage extended from the northern coast of Kyushu through Shikoku and north to Shizuoka prefecture on Honshu. Kyodo said the havoc area extended 340 miles at its longest and 60 miles wide.

Osaka Damaged.

Osaka, Japan's second largest city, reported 14 killed, heavy property damage and water three feet deep in some sections.

The famous cities of Kyoto and Nara, both former Japanese capitals near Osaka, appeared to have escaped any but minor damage. Both escaped bomb damage during the war.

The U. S. military government said Osaka had five days' food rations for 50,000 people. Large quantities of imported grain recently were released to Japanese at Kobe. Authorities said they considered the food situation good at both places.

However, U. S. military officials said it may be necessary to supply stricken areas on the Wakayama peninsula by boat because of communications disruptions.

Great Arm of Water Swings Six Times

TOKYO—(AP)—U. S. military reports tonight said all American army personnel in Japan's quake and tidal wave ravaged area were safe.

Only one casualty—a missing soldier—was reported from the British occupation sector, although it is near the center of the area. British headquarters at Kure was damaged.

EDWIN BAXTER DIES AT AGE 88

Pioneer Industrialist Passes In General Hospital After Long Illness.

Edwin D. Baxter, 88, one of Mansfield's pioneer industrialists, died in General hospital early today.

Although he had been in failing health for several years, Mr. Baxter had been confined to the hospital only for the past six weeks.

He was born in Stark county near Hanover, Feb. 2, 1858, the son of Thomas and Isabella Baxter. Later the family moved to Salem, where Mr Baxter went into the stove manufacturing business with his father and eight brothers. In 1886, the Baxters moved the business to Mansfield and founded the Baxter Stove company here.

EDWIN D. BAXTER

Mr. Baxter continued his affiliations with that company until 1917, when it was sold to other interests.

Civic Worker.

Mr. Baxter was always greatly interested in community and church activities. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church and a teacher in its Sunday school for 25 years.

He was a member of the board of trustees and one of the founders of the Mansfield Community Fund, a member of the General hospital board and actively interested in its work for many years. One of the founders of the Mansfield YMCA, he served at various times as its president and vice president and also held the chairmanship of the foreign work committee.

Mr Baxter was also a member of the board of directors of the Mechanics Building and Loan company and the Richland Trust company.

Founded Senior Golfers.

He was a member of the Wetbrook Country club and through his golf interests there, became one of the founders of the Ohio Senior Golf association, holding hon Just this past September he was retired as an honorary president of the association.

Mr Baxter leaves one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Lare; one granddaughter Margaret Louise Reynolds, and a brother, Berry A., of Altadena, Calif. His wife, the former Mary Simpson, daughter of the late John Simpson, former superintendent of Mansfield schools, died in September, 1930.

Services will be held at the home, 177 West Second street, Monday at 2 p. m. with Rev. David N. Roller officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home until Monday morning.

RIFT FLARES IN GOP FOLD

Rep. Jenkins Attacks Dewey for Giving Halleck House Leadership Endorsement.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The first serious rift in the Republican ranks since the party won the congressional elections broke into the open today with a demand that presidential candidates keep hands off the house leadership contests.

Rep. Thomas Jenkins of Ohio objected in a formal statement to "attempts by outsiders to dominate the American congress."

He leveled his remarks primarily at Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's endorsement of Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana for the house floor leadership. But he said they apply as well to "any presidential aspirants—Senator Taft or Senator Bricker, too, although I don't think they'd try it."

Jenkins is one of three announced candidates for the leadership position to be vacated by Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts when he becomes speaker of the house on January 15.

The others are Halleck and Rep. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, neither of whom was in Washington when Jenkins let loose his blast at the New York governor last night.

A fourth representative, Clarence J. Brown, has announced his availability for the leadership but has not formally declared his candidacy.

While capitol observers long had seen the leadership struggle as a jockeying for position for the GOP presidential nomination, Jenkins was the first member of his party to label it openly as such.

Except for including Taft and Bricker in his grouping of "presidential aspirants," he made no reference in his statement to Capitol Hill talk that Brown has the backing of the Ohio senators.

Jenkins reiterated his intention to remain in the race until it is settled by the Republican caucus on January 2.

Dewey's espousal of Halleck's candidacy, Jenkins declared, was an expression of the governor's desire to "let the country know that Hallack was 'his' man."

"He must believe it will help him into the presidency," he said. "Does it mean that Dewey will have a voice and hand in directing the actions of congress? It means nothing else." In Albany a Dewey aide commented: "Freedom of speech is still permitted—fortunately."

NO BIRTHDAY PARTY?

LONDON—(AP)—This is Prime Minister Joseph Stalin's 67th birthday but up to mid-morning Moscow radio broadcasts heard in London had made no mention of the fact.

I PLAYED AT

Friendly House

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of personal sketches of well-known Mansfield residents who used Friendly House facilities in their youth.)

Clifford C. Knarr, city councilman representing Third ward, says:

"I was in contact with Friendly House when I was a youngster and even in later years when my brother, Stewart W. Knarr, was a director there. He is now director of the Valentine Boys' club in Chicago. I know from personal observations and experiences that the Friendly House cause is one of the most worthy in the city.

"It is my thought that there are few athletically-inclined men in Mansfield who didn't make use of Friendly House facilities in some form when they were boys. The basketball court was what I used mostly when I was a kid in grade school and even later when I played basketball with City Industrial league teams."

WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO MISHAP

NEW LONDON — One New London area resident was killed and two others were seriously injured in a three-car accident on an icy highway one mile east of Oberlin last night.

Mrs. Ida Lucal, 55, of Collins, died at Allen Memorial hospital in Oberlin three hours after the car which her son, Conrad Lucal, of New London, was driving, skidded on U. S. Route 20 and was in a head-on collision with a truck at 6 p. m.

Her husband, Leon Lucal, suffered a fractured pelvis and other injuries, and a granddaughter, Sharon Lucal, 11, received internal injuries in the accident. Both were in serious condition today in Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucal, their son and daughter-in-law and their two grandchildren were returning to New London after a shopping trip to Elyria when the tragedy occurred.

Witnesses said the car skidded into the path of a truck driven by Frank Shapiro, of Cleveland. A third car, driven by William McGuire, of Schenectady, N. Y., crashed into the rear of Lucal's vehicle, but McGuire was not injured. All three vehicles were damaged.

Uninjured were Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Lucal and their young son.

JOHN GETS HIS REST BUT WITH POLICE HELP

Police had to call out an interpreter so that aged John Falato, of Paterson, N. J., could rest.

John climbed down from a Chicago-bound bus at Mansfield yesterday, determined to rest up before going on. But it wasn't easy.

You see, John speaks no English. Only Italian. A note in his pocket listed his destination. But attempts by bus depot employes to learn why he de-barked at Mansfield proved fruitless.

Police finally came to the rescue. A Mansfield street department employe, Joe Letizia, was called. Joe speaks Italian. John's weary eyes brightened.

It was simple, after that. All John wanted was rest. So yesterday John "rested"—in a hardback, courtroom chair. In the silence of the empty chambers he dozed.

Today, in his weather-beaten hat and overcoat, and clutching his leatherette satchel and a cane, John was again on his way.

ELLIOTT COMING HOME

MOSCOW—(AP)—Elliott Roosevelt said today that he and his wife probably will leave Moscow tomorrow, if the weather permits, with the intention of spending Christmas with his mother, Mrs Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Hyde Park.

F. H. CAMPAIGN TOPS $10,000

End of the first week in the public campaign for $60,000 with which to aid in financing a new $235,000 Friendly House building ended today with $10,025 in the collection coffers.

Paul W. Endriss, campaign chairman, said all of the $10,025 collected to date is in the form of unsolicited gifts. Reports from industrial, business, professional and public employes divisions of the campaign have still not been made, he said.

Yesterday's gifts amounted to $1,825.

The drive, which still has approximately two and one-half weeks to go before the Jan. 15 deadline, is part of "Operation Tomorrow," a long-range social and youth improvement program to provide better facilities for the Friendly House, YMCA, YWCA, Girl Scouts and the Salvation Army.

SCHOOL STRIKE CHARTER FAILS

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(INS)—The four-week-old strike of 1,165 St. Paul public school teachers continued today after the teachers rejected a charter commission proposal to end the strike while the commission considered a new wage scale.

The commission told the teachers' joint council representatives that it would process a city charter amendment to provide three million dollars more for schools if they returned to their jobs.

In rejecting the offer, the teachers' council declared last night:

"A number of members of the charter commission openly indicated their intention of working for defeat of this amendment at the polls.

"Only through a reasonable guarantee that the program for better schools will not be sabotaged will the strike action be suspended. Only with the accomplishment of the program will the suspension be made permanent."

Under the commission proposal, a new teacher salary scale would be established with a $2,400 yearly minimum and an eventual $4,200 maximum for teachers with a bachelor of arts degree.

Chaplain Pays Joan's Lawyers

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Charles Chaplin's long and unsuccessful legal fight to escape being labeled the father of Joan Barry's three-year-old daughter today cost the comedian an additional $39,706.

Superior Judge Clarence L. Kincaid yesterday ordered Chaplin to pay that sum in attorneys' fees to Joseph Scott and Associates. Kincaid set the award at $42,706 but allowed Chaplin to deduct $3,000 he paid previously.

Georgia's Talmadge Dies Before Inauguration

ELLIS ARNALL

ATLANTA —(AP)— Eugene Talmadge, who four times was elected governor of Georgia, died today less than a month before his scheduled fourth inauguration.

The 62-year-old champion of white supremacy succumbed quietly at Piedmont hospital where he had lain in a coma since last night.

His death left in doubt the successor to the governorship from which youthful Ellis Arnall ousted him four years ago. Unofficial legal sources said however that Arnall might remain in office at least until the next general election two years hence.

There is no precedent in the state, but the constitution provides the governor shall remain in office until his successor is qualified and elected. The legislature which meets in January formally elects the governor.

ARNALL WAS PREVENTED from seeking a second term under a new constitution.

Talmadge's death was announced simply by a physician who stepped from the governor elect's room and announced:

"He died at seven o'clock."

Talmadge first was striken with a stomach hemorrhage in Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 4, and twice he was pronounced better and dismissed from the hospital. He entered the hospital for the last time Nov. 29, and had been improving until last Sunday when he suffered a relapse.

Two days ago his physicians said he was suffering with an acute inflamation of the liver cells possibly caused by the administration of plasma and pronounced his condition critical. He had received much blood by transfusion since the first hemorrhages.

Members of the Talmadge family, including his wife, son and campaign manager, Herman, and two daughters, Mrs. Bill Kimbrough and Mrs. Charles Smyly, were near his bedside when the governor-elect died.

Talmadge's death ended an up and down political career in Georgia. His first success was in 1927 when he was named state commissioner of agriculture. In 1933, he was elected governor, serving two two-year terms until 1937. He lost a bitter battle for the U. S. senate to Richard B. Russell in 1936, and again in 1938, he was in the race against Senator Walter George. That was the race when the late President Roosevelt backed Lawrence Camp in his purge campaign. George won.

* * *

TALMADGE EMERGED FROM political retirement in 1940 again to become governor, but two years later, after a heated campaign, he lost to Ellis Arnall.

When Arnall was prevented under a new state constitution from seeking reelection, Talmadge emerged again under his old banner of white supremacy, and was elected under the state's county unit system despite the fact that James V. Carmichael, who had Arnall's backing, took the popular vote.

His worst setback was in the race against Arnall four years ago, and it came on the heels of a row between Talmadge and officials of the state university system.

Talmadge charged two prominent state educators with advocating racial cooperation. The men denied the charges, declined to resign and were upheld by the state board of regents.

Lippmann Today and Tomorrow

THOUGH THERE is a difference, as the Canadian delegate has argued, between the United Nations arms limitations resolution and the American proposals, the difference is more apparently than it is real.

All are agreed that the treaty must be approved by the governments that sign it. Until they sign and ratify, they have what is now called "a veto" a new name for the old right of any sovereign government to reject a treaty it does not like.

The whole policy of the United States is based on this veto: We will not sign a treaty which we do not think is a good treaty

All are agreed—particularly since Russian Foreign Minister Molotov's recent speech—that all who sign the treaty are bound by what the treaty says. The Russians do not contend that, having agreed to a treaty, they or any one else can by the veto refuse to observe or to enforce that treaty.

Yet on this point there appears to be a difference What is the difference? What is the sticking point?

I venture to think that it is in the difficulty of writing a treaty which is so detailed and so specific that every important dispute is clearly foreseen in advance and a rule is laid down in the treaty which governs it.

* * *

THE RUSSIANS, foreseeing a treaty which will leave open many points that will have to be settled as they arise, do not wish to agree in advance that those points shall be settled by majority vote The settlement of the unsettled points is the same thing as writing a supplementary treaty They do not wish to agree in advance that they must approve them if they are outvoted They expect to be outvoted

We on the other hand feel that if each of the unsettled points has to be settled unanimously the whole system may become stalled Therefore Bernard Baruch has been contending that they be settled by some kind of majority vote

How successfully this difference is actually resolved will depend primarily on how specific and inclusive a treaty can be written If the treaty covered every conceivable point for the whole future, stating exactly what is commanded and what prohibited, how and by whom each violation is to be detected, determined, judged and punished, then the veto after the treaty would cease to exist altogether

If, on the other hand, the treaty is not inclusive, is vague, is general, lacks specific definition then on all points that remain unsettled, the veto of the great powers will, however one disguises it, remain substantial

* * *

AS A MATTER OF FACT, in view of the excellent progress made in the commission, there is every reason to think that the treaty will not be mere generalities. Yet the real question is still how definite can the treaty be made, how clearly can it define the likely violations, how specifically can it state who is to detect them, who is to prove them, what is to be the penalty if proven.

This treaty cannot be an ordinary contract among governments. It will have to be something much bigger than that. it will have to contain, or provide for, a body of international and national civil and criminal laws.

For example, the atomic authority, which we propose, is to have "the exclusive right to carry on atomic research for destructive purposes" and "atomic research for peaceful purposes by national agencies shall be subject to appropriate safeguards established by the international authority."

To put this into effect, after it has been agreed to in a treaty every nation will have to enact comprehensive legislation, much of which amends its existing laws

THE TREATY will have to define this legislation, and almost certainly it will have to say that the treaty has not been ratified until the legislation has been enacted

We must not think, as perhaps we often do, merely of a treaty which if there is charge of violation has to be enforced by the Security Council. The endorsement will require a vast and complex and new body of laws in all countries laws dealing with property rights, with mining, with patents, with the legal status of atomic officials and employes, with atomic bootlegging, and with no end of other matters.

The doing of this enormously difficult but immensely inspiring work of law making is the real answer to the problem of the veto. For the essence of the veto is that it exists wherever there is as yet no law and no specific agreement. The veto disappears not by renouncing it but as and when and where laws become definite and agreements specific

PICCARD PREPARES TO GO UP 19 MILES

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A balloon trip to an altitude of 100,000 feet—almost 19 miles up—will be attempted next June by Dr. Jean Piccard, 61-year-old scientist, in a dramatic quest for new data on cosmic rays and other phenomena of the upper atmosphere.

The ascension, to be financed by the navy's office of naval research, will start from the Naval Air station, Ottumwa, Ia.

As now planned the research will be conducted in a 400-pound gondola supported by a cluster of 100 balloons, each 57 feet in diameter Other flights into the stratosphere have been conducted with steel gondolas attached to one large balloon.

ARMY IN ROLE OF SANTA FOR HOST OF GI'S

Effort Made to Give Merry Christmas to Servicemen.

WASHINGTON—(INS)— The army opened a bag full of Christmas presents today for GI's ranging from freedom for hundreds of prisoners to reunions overseas with dependents.

These efforts by the army to make it a merry Christmas for all concerned were coupled with a shower of greetings to servicemen around the world from President Truman and the high command.

Felicitations were expressed along with hopes for permanent peace and thanks to members of the armed forces for foregoing Christmas at home with loved ones to obtain that goal.

Their commander-in-chief reminded them that "there is still much to be done" in the struggle "to shape the events of today and tomorrow toward a just and lasting peace for all peoples in all countries."

Formal religious celebrations of the birth of Christ, Yuletide parties and programs and turkey dinners have been arranged for soldiers, sailors, marines and coastguardsmen in every part of the world.

Patients Go Home.

Special gifts from the army include:

Christmas flights home for 62 army patients. They will be accompanied by 40 attendants who are giving up their Christmas holiday so that the war casualties can spend the holidays with their families.

They were selected from Walter Reed General hospital, Washington, D. C.; Letterman General hospital, San Francisco; and Percy Jones General hospital, Battle Creek, Mich.

Christmas reunions overseas of hundreds of dependents of American soldiers with their GI fathers and husbands. They are being flown to Europe under special arrangements with commercial airlines.

KIDNAP VICTIM TALKS WAY OUT

DIXON, Ill.—(INS)— Frank L. Sickles, 27, a factory worker, confessed to police early today that he abducted the attractive wife of a Dixon physician in the hope of getting a "bunch of money"—but lost his nerve in the face of his victim's hysterical pleas.

Sickles made his confession to Sheriff Gilbert Finch and Police Chief Harry Fisher He is a resident of Wyoming, Ill.

He told a weird story of choosing his victim, Mrs. Della Stackhouse, at random, and forcing her to accompany him on a cold, aimless five-mile flight across fields, over fences and through ditches.

Sickles, police said, admitted two unsuccessful criminal attacks on the 40-year-old matron.

The pallid, pimply-faced Sickles related how in a hay mow he removed the adhesive-tape gag from Mrs. Stackhouse. Her hysterical pleas for freedom shattered his courage, and he finally permitted her to go to the farm home of John Mench and telephone her husband, Dr. Stirling Stackhouse, sr.

Authorities traced the call and seized the abductor. They planned to file formal charges today after consultation with the FBI.

An angry crowd of more than 500 persons milled about the Lee county courthouse during Sickles' confession.

Police said Sickles left his wife in Wyoming, Ill., ten days ago, taking $600 belonging to his mother-in-law and came to Dixon Dec. 13. He thumbed through a telephone director, and chose the name of Dr. Stackhouse. Then he went to the physician's home.

EX-BELLVILLE MAYOR TAKES HAWLEY'S JOB

Republican Committee Picks Successor to Resigned County Official.

Acting immediately after accepting the resignation of Harry E. Hawley as its clerk, the county board of elections yesterday afternoon hired Thomas R. Zeigler, former Bellville mayor, to fill Hawley's unexpired term.

Zeigler had received the endorsement of the county Republican executive committee for the post Thursday night. Under law, the clerk must be of the opposite political party to that of the board's chairman, George C. Balliet, a Democrat.

Hawley had announced his intention to resign the clerkship at the meeting of the GOP executive committee which met to endorse 35 candidates for political jobs under the new Republican state administration.

A former chairman of the state liquor control board, Hawley became clerk of the board of elections Feb. 28, 1945.

Rumor has it that he will be Ohio's next liquor director under Governor-Elect Thomas J. Herbert.

Zeigler, a native of Bellville, served as the southern Richland county village's mayor for four terms, between 1937 and 1945. He attended Bellville schools and was graduated from the Eastman Business college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

He takes office as clerk of the board of elections Jan. 1, one day after the effective date of Hawley's resignation.

Up and Down The Street

MORE LIKE HOME—

Lace curtains are the only thing lacking to make the newly decorated Mansfield Army recruiting office in the post office building "just like home." And the lace curtains will be up soon. Mrs. Daniel DeSalvo, wife of the recruiter, is now making them to supplement the acquisition by the station of a leather divan, comfortable chairs, reading tables and lamp. With all this there's an abundance of army literature to read, including copies of the latest magazines.

You have to see it to believe, they say—but they saw and, they said, the optical illusion is so perfect that the uphill action actually seems to be true.
